* Missionaries have terms of three - four years. Because of budget constraints, they now have to have commitments for all of their support for their complete term before they can go or return to their country of service. This means that commitments of three years or more are highly valued. Everyone recognizes that circumstances might preclude honoring a commitment, but in faith, contributors are asked to pledge for three years as much as possible. If you are supporting a new missionary, information on how to send the support checks will be sent to you after your commitment form is received.

 Salary support is the highest priority until a missionary is fully funded. Then support for the programs with which they work is next. These are ECO (Extra Commitment Accounts) with specific numbers.
