

“The PYC has lead me to some amazing, fun people I (probably) would not have met and become friends with otherwise. When I came into the PYC I was incredibly shy, unwilling to open up to people. Being on the council has definitely benefited me in that area; at retreats and rallies, I find it easier to work in a group and lead. I was hesitant to join but I don't regret doing so: the PYC is an entirely new, different community of friends that I love and appreciate. Plus, the inside jokes you can acquire over a year in PYC are pretty killer.”

-Caroline Wilson, senior

“My time on PYC has strengthened my faith as I learned more about myself, and noticed the impact I had the potential to have on others. The friendships and experiences that it allowed me to have has had a large influence on the person I have come to be. I would most def recommend joining the council if you want test your own faith while exemplifying it to others.”

-Jacob Gerald Sharp, senior
